The trapezius muscle, a substantial muscle spanning the neck, shoulders, and upper back, can be effectively reduced in size using anti-wrinkle injections. This reduction results in the visual impression of an elongated neck and more squared-off shoulders. Additionally, it can alleviate discomfort stemming from overuse and excessive muscle development in the neck and shoulders. BODY CONTOUR

Ultrasonic Fat Cavitation and Radio Frequency Skin Tightening is a non-invasive procedure that melts fat away without the extensive risks of traditional procedures like liposuction.

Fat cavitation uses radio frequency energy to liquefy fat cells and stimulate the production of collagen and elastin. The fat cells cannot withstand this pressure, and therefore disintegrate into a liquid. The body then moves this liquid through the lymphatic system to the liver, where it's recycled and used as energy. The result is immediate centimetre loss and will leave your skin looking smoother, with less visible dimpling, lumps and bumps.

We like to use these in smaller areas where Fat freezing cannot treat
For the best results 8 to 10 sessions are required

EMSHAPE

EmShape is a non-invasive treatment and has no recovery time or any pre/post-treatment preparation. EmShape uses High Intensity Pulsed Electromagnetic therapy to create a muscle contraction stronger than you could ever achieve on your own. In each 30-minute session, you can achieve 20,000 contractions – the equivalent of 20,000 crunches/squats to strengthen and tone your inner core, sculpt your abs and glutes. This contraction does not involve muscle relaxation and the muscle works at its maximum capacity. These extreme contraction conditions require the muscle to adapt and develop muscular mass over the treated area and burn fat in the background.

EmShape results are similar to the results of months of time spent at the gym building muscle and losing fat. Many people will notice results within the 2 to 6 weeks following treatment and they will continue to improve in the months following. A positive lifestyle of proper food intake and exercise with help maintain the effect.
